

Anti-War Day

Picture a day in the world where everyone is happy. Seems impossible, right? Yet on the 2nd of April, this impossibility turns into a reality. A day where everyone all around the world celebrates the ‘Anti-War Day’.

Every country around the world would celebrate it. It would be a global event that would allow people from different backgrounds to come together for the cause of peace and harmony.

Peace talks and community service projects are the primary events lined up on the day. By engaging in these activities, participants can feel a sense of connection and shared humanity. As for children, they can get along with each other and befriend each other by participating in team-building games and other educational initiatives.

The day serves as a reminder of the importance of peace-building efforts. Together, we can be architects of a brighter, more harmonious future for generations to come through this festival.

(Chelsea Lam_6G)